

What to do

Implement the Edge Detection function from assignment 7 using a shared queue. Each thread will perform edge detection on one row at a time before getting another row to process from the queue. You will need to come up with a method to determine that the edge detection is completed so each thread can stop waiting for work.